Student Performance

Colorado students are assessed once a year in order to measure their performance on state academic content standards, using the Colorado Student Assessment Program (CSAP). The chart below shows the results for grades $9-10$ in the subject areas for reading, writing and math for all students tested.

Each school in the State received a rating of "Excellent", "High", "Average", "Low", or "Unsatisfactor" for student academic performance in school year 2003-2004 using the CSAP result printed above., Every student in this school who took these tests performance in school year $2003-2000$ using the CSAP results printed above. Every student in this school who took these tests was included in the calculation used to assign a rating, exccept tor students who do not speak Engish, or who are eligbie for the The percentages of students whose scores were included in the calculation or were not included in each of the three categories is shown on the above chart. Your school's rating was detemmined by the percentage of students performing in each of the Advanced, Proficient, Partialy Proficient, and Unsatisfactory levels. These percentages were weighted and combined across grade evels and academic areas. These weights reward performance at the Advanced and Proficient levels over performance at grade levels and academic areas. These weights reward performance at the Avvanced and Proficient tevels over performance at academic area and grade level for each school and comparing this school to all other high schools for the 2003 -2004 school year.

Questions Parents Should Ask

Based on your child's school's Overall Academic Performance Rating of Average, here are some questions you may want to ask your school about student achievement.

What is the school doing to improve my child's overall grades in reading, writing, and math?
You may want to request information from your child's teacher to find out what curriculum is being taught and if the material follows standards set in these key subjects. Ask how phonics - and research-based testing is being used to identify your child's strengths and weaknesses.

What can I do as a parent to help my child do his or her best in school?
Parental involvement is important in making sure your child does well in school - talk o your child's teacher to find out how you can help. Ask your child's teacher about jo your child s teacher to find out how you can help. Ask your child s teacher abour homework that you may help your child with at home.

How does my child's teacher plan to help my child do his or her best in school?

 Your child's teacher should have a good idea of what your child does well and what areas might need improvement. Ask your child's teacher how he or she is being diagnostically assessed and what strategy his or her teacher has in place to address your child's needs.How does the school use tests (i.e. CSAP, ACT, etc.) to make sure my child is or will be ready for college?
Ask your child's college advising counselor about how your child's scores will help or hinder his or her ability to attend and succeed in college and what grants and scholarships your child may be eligible for.

What specifically is the school doing to improve its overall academic rating?
Your child's school should have a plan to improve how well it is teaching its students. You should ask your school if it provides professional development for its teachers and performs diagnostic evaluations that can help the school target what needs to be improved.

What is the school doing to make sure its students are doing the best they can do? If your child needs extra help, the school should be able to provide it. Ask about how it plans to make sure all students are learning what needs to be learned, which areas still need improvement and what is being done about it.

Based on this school's academic performance, your child may be eligible for one or more of the following; ask your school if your child qualifies for: After-school and summer-school classes
